CLINICAL EXERCISE GROUPS

During sessions, an exercise physiologist or physiotherapist will closely monitor your response to exercise and provide individualised guidance using evidence-based exercises tailored to your needs and preferences to support your health goals.

An initial consultation is required prior to joining group classes to design a program that suits your health needs and to establish your individual goals.

Reassessments are completed every 8-12 weeks. These reviews are used to assess progress, update goals, and appropriately progress or modify exercises. This ensures your program continues to be tailored to your individual concerns and remains aligned with your health needs.

To book for an initial consultation or a reassessment, please call the Allied Health Administration team. Please bring a towel and water bottle to each appointment.
